What is your approach to using Art and Craft Resources to meet the needs of your students and faculty?	Our approach to using Art and Craft Resources to meet the need of our students and faculty is that we get students to work on projects in groups with a mixture of levels. Arts and crafts can be a great way to include cross-curricular activities in the classroom. Students as well as faculties can incorporate drama skills using masks they have made for role plays. They can use their knowledge of geography to make flag posters. We find that teamwork, class cohesion and sharing are promoted if students have to work together to complete an art project and that making something in class is a more creative and productive treat than video. Faculties can appeal to the competitive urge in many students by getting them to produce art work for competition, e.g., design a Christmas card or school magazine cover. We find arts and crafts useful for recycling language. We can use a wall display to revise vocabulary as a warmer. Students look at it for 30 seconds then try to remember what they've seen with their chairs turned round.
